

A Case of Memory Loss in Oekenshire Hill

A map of Oekenshire Hill

Your private data analysis group was commissioned by the Regional Health Ministry of Eriador due to a disturbing number of memory loss incidents these past 3 months in the idyllic town of Oekenshire Hill. Oekenshire Hill is known for its good-natured citizens who have great respect for the environment and a welcoming attitude to foreigners. Six months ago, a convention of Tree-like Humanoids called Groots was held at the Treebeard's Pub where they served the Groot beverage known as Ent-Draught. Then 3 months later, case reports of citizens suddenly finding themselves at Greenwood Entry in their sleepwear or prostrated at the Chapel Hill floors with no recollection of the immediate past events leading to their condition came about. This problem greatly concerned the Health Ministry for the possibility that the memory loss may be due to contaminated Ent-Draught, an infection that can spread to the rest of the region or worse, an uncontrollable supernatural phenomenon. Based on initial consultations with your group and high ranking government officials, your group calculated a sample size of 25 households to investigate the case. Conduct the investigation by following the correct research process and by performing the appropriate data analysis techniques. You are due to present your findings to the esteemed White Council of Eriador within 30 days where you must recommend strategies to prevent and treat the memory loss cases in Oekenshire Hill.
